

This morning, we will observe the festival of "All Saints," which celebrates the baptized people of God, living and dead, who make up the body of Christ. With thanksgiving, we remember all the faithful departed, especially those most dear to us who have died. It is also a time to celebrate those living saints who have been welcomed through baptism into the community of the faithful this past year.

REFUGEE SUNDAY

Today is Refugee Sunday: Did you know that there are more than 60 million people around the world who have been forced to flee their homes due to war, violence and persecution? One of the key tenets of our faith is to welcome the sojourner and show love and care for the vulnerable. The parable of the Good Samaritan speaks powerfully to us at a critical and challenging period in our nation's rich history of welcoming refugees and affirming the human dignity of immigrants and asylum seekers.

What can we do?

Having full faith in the power of God's love to transform the lives of those fleeing horrifying danger, we ask God to provide protection and comfort to refugees on their journey, to strengthen them with hope for the future, and to use us, His children, to extend His love to refugees in our communities.

Go to refugeesunday.lirs.org to learn more about the refugee crisis, to pray along with others and to contribute financially to Lutheran Immigration and Refugee Service as they serve refugees all across the world in the name of Christ.
